Grand Junction, Colorado

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, for years the ace hurler of the New York Yankees, is now pitching for Wilson Sporting Goods Co. Lefty travels over 100,000 miles a year promoting baseball at all levels including professional, collegiate, high school, and youth leagues. He is one of the few retired players who has remained active in baseball.

Both in color and performance, Gomez ranks as truly an all-time baseball great. For 12 years (1931-1942), he pitched with one of the greatest teams in baseball annals, the New York Yankees, who won seven pennants and six world titles during that span.

His best season was a 26-5 record in 1934. That year he led the league in shutouts, strikeouts, completed games, innings pitched, wins and percentage. In four different seasons with the Yanks, he won more than 20 games, compiling an average of less than 3.5 earned runs per game for his entire career. He pitched better than .500 against every club in the league.

His World Series record is outstanding—six wins against no defeats. He pitched in five Major League All-Star games, winning three—including the first one in Chicago.

Gomez was born on November 26, 1910, in Rodeo, California. His droll wit is of Irish and Spanish origin. In 1933, he married June O'Dea, a Broadway star, and they now have four children, two boys, Gary and Dwayne and two girls, Verona and Sharon.
